In the wake of her mother's untimely death, 12-year-old Lily is left reeling from grief and confusion. As she struggles to come to terms with her loss, she finds solace in the unlikelyst of places: her grandmother's dusty attic.

There, among forgotten heirlooms and childhood memories, Lily discovers a hidden diary that belonged to her great-grandmother, Sarah. Sarah's words, penned over a century ago, paint a vivid portrait of a young woman who faced her own challenges with courage and resilience.

As Lily reads Sarah's diary, she begins to see her own life in a new light. She learns that grief is not a weakness, but a testament to the love she shared with her mother. And she discovers that even in the darkest of times, there is always hope to be found.

Season to Remember is a beautifully written and deeply moving coming-of-age story that will stay with you long after you finish reading it. It is a story about love, loss, and the unbreakable bonds that connect us to our past and our future.

"I participated in #KissPitch, a Twitter event where authors pitch their romance manuscripts. My eventual agent Sarah Younger at Nancy Yost Literary Agency "liked" my tweet, so I submitted my query letter and full manuscript to her. She liked it, and I signed with her a couple months later."
