A Story of Humility, Love, and Surrender

Born in France in 1873, Marie-Françoise-Thérèse Martin was the youngest of nine children. From a tender age, she exhibited an extraordinary love for God and a deep desire to serve others. At the age of 15, she entered the Carmelite monastery in Lisieux, where she spent the remainder of her short life in prayer and contemplation.

In her autobiography, Thérèse recounts her childhood, her vocation to religious life, and her struggles with illness and suffering. Through her candid and engaging writing, we witness her unwavering trust in God's providence and her determination to live a life of love and surrender.

Becoming "The Little Flower"

Thérèse's life was marked by her humility and her desire to be like a "little flower" before God. She believed that even the smallest of actions, done with love, could make a significant difference in the world.

Her famous "Little Way" emphasized the importance of simplicity, trust, and obedience. Through her example, Thérèse taught that sanctity is not reserved for the extraordinary but can be achieved by anyone who follows her path of love and surrender.

A Legacy of Love and Inspiration

Thérèse died in 1897 at the age of 24. Despite her short life, her writings and teachings have had a profound impact on countless souls. Her autobiography has been translated into over 50 languages and continues to be a source of inspiration and guidance for people from all walks of life.

In 1925, Thérèse was declared a saint by Pope Pius XI. She is now one of the most beloved and popular saints in the Catholic Church. Her feast day is celebrated on October 1.
